

4th Street Heritage Trail PROJECT UPDATE

This week...

Project preparations continued this week with visits to businesses by Project Site Manager, Mark Marshall, and Construction Media Representative, Dwight Spengler. Locations were also scouted and selected for placement of seismic gauges to monitor vibrations during construction.

Up Next...

Week of Monday, January 28 – Friday, February 1, 2019

Beginning Monday, January 28, 4th Street will be closed between US231 and Jackson Street. The intersection of 4th and Jackson will also be closed. While Jackson Street will remain open, barricades will be placed at 3rd and 5th Streets – these barricades are designed to slow down traffic while approaching the construction site.

Please note: pedestrian lanes will be clearly marked and open throughout the duration of the project.

Other work taking place this week includes: jackhammering and potholing; saw-cutting asphalt along the trench drain; and saw-cutting behind curbs to prepare flush curbs (on both north and south sides of the street). Stone and equipment deliveries will also be made throughout the week, so please be aware of your surroundings while near the site. *This work will take place in the US231-Jackson Street block ONLY.

Reminders...

- Please keep thresholds and the areas in front of your doors clear and free of obstruction.
- Coordinate all deliveries with your local delivery company.
- COMING SOON! Community parking maps, and additional information can be found at <http://www.huntingburg-in.gov/>.
- Have a question about construction activity? You can schedule a time to meet with project representatives at Current Blend. Office hours are first Wednesday of each month from 11:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m. To schedule an appointment, please email rtaylor@tswdesigngroup.com.
